

Expanding classrooms. Strengthening communities.

Potential Team Members

A statewide survey of community organizations was conducted at the beginning of the Great Lakes Fishery Trust (GLFT) Stewardship Initiative to assess how these organizations currently envision or enact place-based education, and the degree to which their missions support place-based education that involves school-community partnerships. At the end of the survey, respondents were asked to indicate if they were interested in participating in or learning more about the GLFT Stewardship Initiative. Below is a list of organizations that indicated interest. The list is divided into three groups: 1) members of Michigan United Conservation Clubs, 2) other natural resource and environmental organizations, and 3) public middle and high schools. This does not represent all respondents to the survey, only those who provided contact information.
